Winners Announced in 2014 New York Press Club Awards for Journalism Awards Presentation Dinner is June 9th at the Water Club, Manhattan

TIME Magazine's Steven Brill is the 2014 winner of the New York Press Club's highest award, the Gold Keyboard for excellence in investigative journalism for his article, "Bitter Pill: Why Medical Bills Are Killing Us." The article exhaustively examined why healthcare in the U.S. costs so much and was an eye opener for many Americans. Brill's award will be among those presented June 9th at the Press Club's annual Awards and Installation of Officers Dinner at Manhattan's Water Club.

Also at the event, the New York Press Club Foundation will officially rename its scholarship program for student members to memorialize Stan Brooks, the late 1010 WINS reporter and an inaugural member of the Press Club's New York Journalism Hall of Fame.

Among other top winners in this year's competition, considered one of the most prestigious in journalism, is Jackie Mader of The Hechinger Report who will receive the Nellie Bly Cub Reporter Award for a research series entitled, "In Mississippi, Generations Still Fighting Illiteracy."

The Rev. Mychal Judge Heart of New York Award for a story or series that is most complimentary of New York City will be presented in four categories. Radio: Wayne Cabot of WCBS Newsradio 880 for "35 Years of Ronald McDonald House in New York." Internet: Jennifer Hsu, WNYC.org, "Know Your Neighbor." Newspaper: Anne Kadet, The Wall Street Journal for "Metro Money." TV: Lewis Dodley, Thomas Farkas and Lisa Fuhrman of NY1 News for "Grand Central Terminal at 100: All Aboard."

The Wall Street Journal won the most awards for 2014 with nine. Bloomberg News (including Bloomberg Businessweek, Bloomberg Radio WBBR and Bloomberg Television was second with eight awards. In third place was TIME (including TIME.com) with six.

An enduring tradition in New York media, the annual New York Press Club Awards For Journalism honor excellence by writers, reporters, editors, producers and photographers, including multi-media journalists. Entries are considered in more than 20 categories of reporting from material submitted by New York metropolitan area news organizations and individual journalists. Judging is by prominent journalists, former journalists and academics selected for their expertise in each category.

More information about the New York Press Club and the awards (including awards dinner reservations) and can be found on the club's Web site: <https://www.nypressclub.org/awards.php>.
