Winners Announced in 2011 New York Press Club Awards for Journalism.
Awards Presentation Dinner is June 13th at the Water Club, Manhattan.

Graham Rayman of the The Village Voice won this year's top honor in the New York Press Club's Awards for Journalism for a four part series about corruption at a New York City police precinct in Brooklyn. Rayman's series, "The NYPD Tapes: Inside Bed-Stuy's 81st Precinct," was awarded the Club's Gold Keyboard for investigative journalism. Finalists for the Gold Keyboard Award included investigations published by the Wall Street Journal, the New York Times, Bloomberg News, Fortune Magazine and City Limits Magazine.

More than 300 entries were received in this year's competition, a record number, submitted by journalists publishing or broadcasting for more than 50 metro New York news organizations.

Notable in the outcome was the awarding of three prizes to Charlene Giannetti, co-founder and editor of the Web site, WomanAroundTown.com. Giannetti won awards in the Internet category for Crime Reporting, Entertainment News, and she was Internet winner of the Rev. Mychal Judge Heart of New York Award for her profile of educator, Edes Gilbert.

Bloomberg media properties dominated the Business Reporting awards this year with individual wins by Bloomberg Radio, Bloomberg TV, the Bloomberg News wire service and Bloomberg BusinessWeek magazine.

An enduring tradition in New York media, the annual New York Press Club Awards For Journalism honor excellence in the craft by writers, reporters, editors, producers, shooters and multimediographers.

Entries are considered in more than 20 categories of reporting from material submitted by New York metropolitan area news organizations and individual journalists.

Judging is by prominent working journalists, former journalists and academics who are selected for their expertise in each category.

Award presentations will take place Monday, June 13th, at the Press Club's Awards and Installation of Officers Dinner at Manhattan's Water Club.

MORE INFORMATION about the Awards, the Awards Dinner (including reservations) and the New York Press Club can be found on the Club's Web site: www.nypressclub.org.
