JEFF HORWITZ AND THE STAFF OF THE WALL STREET JOURNAL WIN NEW YORK PRESS CLUB'S GOLD KEYBOARD AWARD FOR 2022 WINNERS ANNOUNCED IN 30 CATEGORIES

The New York Press Club announced today that Jeff Horwitz and the staff of the Wall Street Journal are the 2022 recipients of the club's highest award, The Gold Keyboard. The Journal reporters were recognized for their series of investigative stories entitled, "The Facebook Files" on the social media site's "flaws that cause harm, often in ways only the company fully understands."

The award, along with the full complement for 2022 in 30 categories, will be presented at the club's Annual Awards Dinner, Tuesday, June 7, 7 pm, at the Water Club in Manhattan. (Click here for tickets.)

Other major awards went to Troy Closson of The New York Times who will receive the Nellie Bly Cub Reporter Award and the following winners of the Mychal Judge Heart of New York Award: Alex Vadukul of The New York Times for "Lives of New York" (Newspaper), Virginia Huie and Patrick Mantle of News 12 for "9/11 Birthday Roses" (TV) and Uli Buetter Cohen for "Subway Book Review" (Internet).

As was previously announced, the staff of the Albany Times Union is the recipient of the Club's 2022 "Gabe Pressman Truth to Power Award" for its series of stories on the Cuomo administration lying to the public about COVID-19 practices at nursing homes, and sexual harassment or inappropriate behavior by then-Governor Andrew Cuomo in 2021.
